guest speaker profile

Dr. Kirsten Traynor

Research Scientist

Flickerwood Apiary (Maryland, U.S.)

In 2006-2007, Kirsten received a German Chancellor Fellowship & drove over 50,000 miles throughout Western Europe to study the differences between European and American beekeeping. She reported her findings through 50+ articles. Fascinated with the social complexity of a honey bee hive, she earned her PhD in biology from Arizona State University with Dr. Robert Page. While a grad student, she spent almost a year in Avignon, France in the lab of Dr. Yves Le Conte as a Fulbright Fellow. She investigates how pesticides impact honey bee health as a postdoc and was editor of American Bee Journal. She is the author of Two Million Blossoms: Discovering the Medicinal Benefits of Honey and Simple, Smart Beekeeping. She manages an apiary producing top quality nucs and Maryland reared queens. Using the biology of the bee against the biology of the Varroa mite, she keeps her colonies healthy without synthetic chemicals.
